

Though the 2020 Seattle Design Festival has come to an end, our digital art project, Reimagine in Color, will continue to accept submissions through September. Inspired by the festival's theme, About Time, it reflects this particular time in history, as well as the virtual learning trend resulting from the social distancing protocols of the Covid-19 pandemic.

Also happening now as part of the 2020 SDF is the Seattle Architecture Foundation's Annual Model Exhibit. There are several ways to experience this year's exhibit: online, in-person via appointment, or through the glass windows of the Center for Architecture and Design.

During this unusual time, we are inspired by the ability of Seattle's design community to stay connected and engaged. We invite you to join the conversation.
