Weber Thompson is an award-winning architecture, interior design, landscape architecture and community design firm.

Weber Thompson, an award-winning architecture, interior design, and landscape architecture firm has an opening on our landscape architecture studio. Our projects are complex, incorporating innovative green infrastructure with thoughtful design to be responsive to a site's context. We work for visionary private developers that require unique solutions for residential and commercial offices located in the Seattle area.

Our team is composed of generalists that have knowledge in most aspects of design, but bring an expertise based on our individual passions. We are looking for someone ready to jump into daily project management, who is technology savvy, and who likes working in teams.

You will work alongside a great group of people who prioritize collaboration and humor in their day-to-day interactions. Our office is a friendly and low-key, yet deadline-driven, environment with minimal egos. We work in a deep-green office building, Watershed, in Seattle's quirky Fremont neighborhood. We are committed to supporting a diverse and inclusive culture and we are proud to be a JUST Company.
